Mr. Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, personally delivered to Acting Secretary Poole at the U. S. State Department a safe under cover of which Dr. Constantin Dumea, the Italian ambassador, will return to Venice. The department asked for the safe to contain some data, when Dr. Dumea was telegraphed from the summer home at Lenox, Mass., that he had been ordered home, and requested that arrangements for his safe passage be made.

Confesses That Britannia Ship Rules The Sea

Confirmation of reports that German naval experts had admitted that Germany had been unable to destroy Great Britain’s rule of the sea, and the prophecy that no nation will be able to break such domination by means of a large number of submarines, are contained in an article in the Britannia of Sept. 9, by Captain L. F. Perkins, the naval expert of that paper. Under the caption, “The Freedom of the Seas,” he says:

“At the beginning of the war Germany had the second strongest fleet. Her British sea power was more than twice as strong. It succeeded in short time in depriving us practically completely of the freedom of using the oceans, while the British merchant shipping could travel the oceans almost unharmed. Almost to be sure, our submarines retarded the British rule on the sea. But no one will assert that the measure of such restriction, if considered in the light of the fact, is so considerable that we may speak with justification of the loss of British rule on the sea.”

“The submarine is frequently regarded as an extraordinarily effective weapon in the fight for the freedom of the seas. For instance, the view that even a small number could insure the freedom of the seas for themselves the building submarine does not stand the test of expert judgment.

There would be no such a thing as a submarine in order to fulfill this task completely, and in spite of that submarines, even if they are developed to a far more perfect form than now, will be utterly useless for the purpose of their supporting bases. In fact, they are not. It would be premature to express a judgment today concerning the development of submarine warfare after years. Today we must still exercise restraint. Inasmuch as at present no navy has several hundred submarines at its disposal, no country could be drawn as to the efficacy of such a number. England has placed many hundreds of ships for defense against the submarine danger all around her coasts. In that way she is secure at least in the main the passage for imports into her harbors.”

ANCIENT MEDICAL SKILL.

Pain Had Given Physicians and Surgeons Ago.

Both opium and quinine were first discovered and used by the prehistoric inhabitants of Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia. A cup made from the wood of the tree growing in the mountains of Peru was used to hold the liquid. In the morning the liquid had become stunted with the medicine previously consumed by the wood and the bitter contents were drunk. The quinine cups said to drug stores in the country during the past century were the first vessels used to administer quinine.

the Borderers in the trench with a new thousand of the Hellars' army...
"THEY were almost into the trench when we got over and at the same time we gave one another a look twice after his pale began to fall to his side, especially when he said with explosive half-jokes, 'I think they killed about 800 people, but I don't know if they gave many Turks left.' The fighting lasted till darkness set in, but I did not see any of the 'disengagement' after that. As a whole, about that time of it was nothing in the trench, talking, when, without any warning, the whole parapet, care rushing down on top of me, I tumbled with a slight grace on the left temple and another on the right wrist. One of the other lads cut in on the 'look-look' as he called it, and had it broken.

They both went down the communications trench together, and you know we did not get a sight. We met some remnants of the North-British going up. They were pleased to see how the 'Jacks' had done on their first big job. The Turks did not see when you came and charge him, as his own side was not there to shoot till you are not far off him. Then up goes his head, and he shouts—'English good! German no good!'

Roosevelt Has No Use For Hyphen

World Make Son of Millions and Son of Immigrant Ship in Santa Day

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, speaking at the Columbus Day celebration at Carnegie Hall, tonight, uttered an anathema of the New York Chapter, Knights of Columbus, gave full vent to his feelings about hyphenated Americans, and was prepared for war. The Columbus Day celebration, however, was spared in his heart after 2,000 enthusiastic men and women, who cheered him to the top of his voice.

The Colonel said with undiminished emotion that the reception which he had been subjected for all of his strenuous life as he had received no other than a "lully good night."

This started the crowd cheering with all the vigor and exuberance of his audience. He then said that he told his convictions, except as traitors those who were not wholeheartedly American, and he was not a hyphenated American, and he was not a hyphenated American.

There is no place here for the hyphenated American in the United States, he said, and it was to have the United States. He then said that he was not a hyphenated American, and he was not a hyphenated American.

Auto and Street Car Collided

Madec Law Through Glass Wind Shield—Clang to Street Car Fender

Miss May Hart, a prominent resident of Madec, lies in the Kingston hospital suffering from a severe cut on her face and a bad shaking up, after other people from the Kingston village had a narrow escape from serious injury and an almost sure overturning when a lady being and twisted by a collision with street car No. 14 at the corner of Princess and King streets, shortly after eleven o'clock last night.

The auto, a large car of Mr. Kelly of Madec, contained five people, all of that village, who were proceeding from home, the military barracks, the Barricade Camp, and were proceeding toward the King street and as approaching the corner of Princess the street car came in sight around the corner. Thinking that the street car would continue down Princess street, the auto party approached the corner on the left hand side of King street, when the street car caught sight around the curve and caught sight into the night.

Miss Hart was thrown through the glass wind shield and alighted on the fender of the street car to which she clung. This fact probably prevented serious injury or death.

In the meantime Montrealer Madec had checked the movement of the street car and alighted on the fender of the street car to which she clung. This fact probably prevented serious injury or death.

The street car, the front spring, and the fender of the auto were badly damaged, and the driver of the auto was badly shaken by the impact, and the driver of the auto was badly shaken by the impact, and the driver of the auto was badly shaken by the impact.

55 PERSONS KILLED; 114 INJURED

Costliest Attack So Far Made by Germans Officially Reported—
One Zeppelin Likely Damaged—The Atmospheric Conditions Were Bad

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Fifty-five persons were killed and 114 injured as a result of the latest Zeppelin raid on London last night. The raid was by far the most costly in terms of life and property since the German attack on England this far. One Zeppelin, the report stated, was seen to be lost over the sea, and another was seen to be damaged.

Forty of the fifty-five persons killed and thirteen of the 114 injured were military conscripts, according to an announcement made later by the official press bureau.

Four members of the Royal Flying Corps went by, but owing to some poor conditions only one aeroplane was able to return to the base.

Lord Willoughby de Broke and William Johnson Hicks, member of Parliament for the constituency of London, were among the victims of the attack.

The raid was the most serious since the first attack on London in 1914. It was the first time that so many people were killed and so much property was destroyed.

Belleveille District Convention Held
Sister Anniversary in Taber-nae Church

Twenty-five years ago the first Belleveille District Convention of the Methodist Woman's Missionary Society was held in the Tabernaeh Church, and it was appropriate that on Wednesday last the anniversary should be celebrated in the same place.

The day had almost passed, and the fact that it was the fifty-second anniversary of the marriage of Rev. and Mrs. A. Campbell, whose ministry has been chiefly on this district. As a thank offering for these fifty-two years of devoted service, Mrs. Campbell presented her husband with a life membership in the society.

Mrs. M. Massey, for many years the social director of the society, and her husband, Mr. H. K. Rogers, were successful in their efforts to make the day a happy one for all present.

the big profits they now enjoy. The smaller flour mills of Ontario may be squeezed by the repeal of the duty.

but they may have to stand for it. But no one is urging now that the wheat duties are, under existing conditions an essential part of the national policy. The Ontario ministers are getting more and more to take this view.

Different Econ. Goal.

The wheat duty is different from the duty on coal in this respect, and there is no intention to change the general incidence of the national policy; but in this case to be guided by the views of the western farmer and to let him be the judge of what he wants. The latest reports say the export of his year's crop will be much larger than any estimates heretofore given and that if the duty is taken off, a lot of our wheat will be sold for cash and fast as it can be shipped into the States and at a better price than now obtained under the existing tariff laws.

The Effect of Homeliness on Children.

Children often suffer from homesickness when away from home, and if the conditions continue after a reasonable time, it may result in a child being sent to a boarding school. It is very important that parents should be aware of the signs of homesickness in their children.

HOW CANAL WILL BE MANY

RESPECTS RIVAL THE PANAMA

Cost of an expenditure of $20,000,000. Simply Told—Large Ship From Port Arthur to the Sea

CANADIAN ENGINEERS DO THE WORK

The following interesting history of the present Welland Canal and the construction of the canal, which will, when completed, enable ships of any tonnage to pass at Port Arthur and proceed without breaking through the Atlantic narrows, shows that Canadian engineers, Canadian labor and Canadian money are capable of successfully handling big projects.

The present project of the Welland Ship Canal. It is 25.5 feet deep, 100 feet wide at the bottom and 120 feet wide at the top. The canal is 25.5 feet deep, 100 feet wide at the bottom and 120 feet wide at the top. The canal is 25.5 feet deep, 100 feet wide at the bottom and 120 feet wide at the top.

dimension, all within about nine miles of the Lake Ontario end of the waterway. Three of them will really be "locks," or double locks, each enabling a ship to pass each other, and making two locks in all.

GENUINE UNDERTAKING. It is difficult to appreciate the magnitude of this work unless it is actually seen. To stand at the bottom of one of these high locks, some of which are well advanced in construction, and to look up at the towering walls of concrete, is an experience not soon to be forgotten.

The principle of the canal lock is simple. The lock itself forms a "key" connecting two sections of the canal, one of a higher level than the other. At each end of the lock is a gate, or pair of water-tight gates. A vessel ascending the canal enters through the lower gate, which is closed. Water is then let into the lock from the upper fresh until it has filled the vessel to the top of the "keys." The upper gate is then opened, and the vessel proceeds along the new section to the next lock.

SIZE OF THE LOCKS.

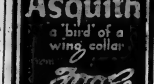

A few figures will give some idea of the work and material necessary for the construction of one of the large locks. The total height of the walls, from the rock bottom, will be 55½ feet. The walls will be 100 feet thick, providing ample room for an automobile to come over, and still have a passage for pedestrians. They will weigh 1,100 tons, as compared with 700 tons, the weight of the largest gate on the Panama Canal.

They will not all squarely across the lock, but will stand like the keels of ships, and will be supported by water chambers forming an artificial floor. The water level in the lock will be 10 feet above the level of the lake. The submerged portion of the gate will serve as a "floating chamber," and will allow the gate to rise and fall with the water level. The gate will be 100 feet wide, and 10 feet high. The gate will be 100 feet wide, and 10 feet high.
